Accounts from Democratic county conventions are good silver reading these days.

This is jubilee week in London and throughout the British empire, completing sixty years of Queen Victoria's reign.

The Democratic county convention at New Philadelphia recommended Hon. A. Patrick as a candidate for the nomination of Governor.

It seems the Republican Senators have not completed the tariff bill as to reciprocity or retaliation, and further caucusing will be necessary.

In his last Sunday's sermon Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage said: "A careful statistician estimates that in 1950 there will be 174,000,000 people in the United States."

Bankers in localities declare that they can pay but 3 per cent for money, but those who borrow from them will have to pay 6, 7, 8, or more per cent. So we go in this world below.

The New York Journal the other day had an illustration of two individuals with the following beneath:

"Say, Mark, have you noticed any signs of prosperity during my absence?"

"The Hawaiian nonsense," one newspaper heads it, and that is a great distance to go for another rotten borough. One island is given over to the lepers. No doubt they hope to take public attention away from their dismal and diseased home policy.

Hon. A. Howells, who has been serving as American consul at Cardiff, England, has returned to his home at Massillon and we learn does not expect to return. The office is in charge of the vice-consul and will so remain until the position is filled by a new man by the President.

The attempt to make the utterly unfit McCord Governor of Arizona and the determination to fill three high Federal offices in Louisiana with three disreputable doers of Hanna's dirty work show that at the White House no less than at the Capitol there is no thought for "the forgotten man."—New York World.

President McKinley, while at Nashville, was presented by the ladies of the Hermitage association with a hickory cane made from a tree that grew at the home of Andrew Jackson. It should be remembered that Andrew Jackson was the President who made a determined stand against wealth controlling our politics.

The Carroll Chronicle in a long article on Mr. Welty's candidacy for Governor, speaks of him as a "very promising candidate before the convention," and closes with the following: "Mr. Welty has a large personal acquaintance in Carroll, Jefferson and surrounding counties, and we expect to see the solid vote of the Sixteenth district cast for Welty first and last."

OUR CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

The Stark County Democratic convention endorsed Hon. John C. Welty for Governor on Tuesday last, and instructed the delegates to vote for him first, last and all the time, and that they use all honorable means to secure his nomination. The resolution went through with a whirl. Mayor Rice had many friends in the convention and one enthusiastic delegate proposed his name for Governor, but Mayor Rice withdrew some weeks ago so that Stark county could present a solid front for but one candidate, and when Mayor Rice gave his pledged faith in the interest of harmony he would be the last man in the county to violate it. Mr. Rice will go to the State convention as a delegate and he will stand as firm as the granite rock in the mountain's base for Stark county's candidate—John C. Welty.

It is an open secret that the gubernatorial nomination lies between Chapman, of Jackson; Hough, of Highland, and Welty, of Stark. Mr. Chapman and Mr. Hough are both from small counties and both Republican counties at that. No political advantage can be gained by the nomination of either, for both of them are located in Senatorial districts that are overwhelmingly Republican. Mr. Welty's nomination will not only insure us the Stark-Carroll Senatorial district but it will likewise give us seven Representatives from Stark, Summit, Portage and Mahoning counties. This will be enough to secure the legislature, even if we should be so unfortunate as to lose Hamilton county.

SKINS ON FIRE

Skins on fire with torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, itching, and pimply humors, instantly relieved by a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, a single application of CUTICURA (ointment), the great skin cure, and a full dose of CUTICURA RESOLVENT.

Cuticura

BABY'S SKIN
Keeps the skin soft, moist, and healthy. Prevents the skin from becoming dry, cracked, and itchy. Keeps the skin from becoming red, swollen, and inflamed. Keeps the skin from becoming covered with pimples, spots, and blotches. Keeps the skin from becoming covered with scales, dandruff, and itching humors. Keeps the skin from becoming covered with eruptions, rashes, and sores. Keeps the skin from becoming covered with all kinds of skin diseases.

President Andrews, of Brown University, will be asked by the faculty not to teach free trade and free silver to the students. If he refuses to comply with the request he may have to go. The faculty is right.—Cleveland Leader.

So the professor must conform or be stretched on the rack as in yore olden time. The Republican is not the party of "free thought, free speech and free men." He must not teach free trade and free speech. This party of tyranny wants none of this.

Dun's Review, to say nothing of other lying sheets, continues to harp about the actual arrival of prosperity, all which its business readers know to be false. For months this twaddle has been kept up by the Dun Review. Away back in its issues in November, December, January, and since, prosperity has been announced. This pretense that times are better for business and labor when such is not the fact, is downright dishonest and cruel. Why is it these men will lie so abominably? It must be to bolster up their wretched cause of wrong and ruin.

Mark Hanna has been foraging on Senator Quay's preserves by securing the appointment of Charles L. Cole, of Pittsburg, as consul to Dresden. Mr. Quay favored Dr. Hugh Pittsburg for the place, and pointedly disclaims having had anything to do with the appointment of Mr. Cole, who is a close friend of Mr. Hanna. Mr. Cole's appointment is all right, but of course Mr. Quay and his annex, Senator Penrose, object to the selection of any Pennsylvanian for any place who has not their indorsement. Ohio is getting the lion's share of patronage, and it is complained that Mr. Hanna exhibits the marked porcine qualities of the State when he comes over to Pennsylvania and names Pennsylvanians for Federal place. Of course once he names them Mr. McKinley has no alternative but to appoint. If this policy is continued it will create friction between Quay and Hanna, which would be distressing beyond means.—Pittsburg Post.

COUNTRY IGNORED.

Wick Taylor, of Youngstown, was last week nominated by the Mahoning county Republicans for Representative. He is a brother of Congressman Taylor, and two years ago was badly beaten by a colored man—the present incumbent—for the place. The fact that the country districts were entirely ignored by the convention, every place given to Youngstown residents, strongly indicates that a Democrat will be elected to the legislature from Mahoning county this fall. H. W. Speer, of Garfield, was Taylor's opponent in the convention.—Salem Herald.

THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

On Tuesday was held in the Grand opera house and was well attended, the delegates being on hand and many others interested. The business was not concluded till after 10 in the evening, and though considerably delayed during the day the work was well done and gives general satisfaction.

In the forenoon there was delay and some confusion occasioned by Chairman Myers's course. After calling the convention to order about 10 o'clock it was almost at once manifest the body by a large majority wanted a chairman of their own choosing and not Mr. Myers. Mr. Myers unfortunately persisted in holding on and thus consumed and riddled away the entire forenoon, refusing to yield to Mr. Zininger, who had been chosen by a large majority. Mr. Zininger finally put the motion to select Dr. E. D. Brant as temporary chairman, which carried, and Dr. Brant took command; but even then Mr. Myers had not the good sense to retire as did Mr. Zininger. After adjournment for dinner Mr. Myers left and did not return in the afternoon. He took with him the list of delegates and refused to give it up, but the convention got along very well without Myers and his list, and the business was attended to and disposed of properly, and as a rule acceptably. The idea of a man persisting in a determination to preside over a large convention against their will reminds one of the animal that undertook to but a locomotive off the track. This bull-headed animal also failed.

THE PROTECTION FOLLY.

"What a piece of work is man!" says a great author. Truly may Americans say so when we consider the folly of a protective tariff. At this time a number of South American merchants are visitors in this country. Not even the natural politeness of these gentlemen prevents them from speaking their minds on the subject of reciprocal trade, which they all favor. They have been interrogated on the subject and some of them speak out.

Colonel Mendes, the Brazilian representative, asks: "How can Americans expect us to buy goods when they place a prohibitive tariff on our products? You may depend upon it that we shall retaliate in the same manner. I can safely say that as soon as the proposed tariff bill passes we shall place such a duty upon American products as will prevent entirely their importation." Mr. Fernandez, of Costa Rica, says: "What is the use of bringing a delegation of South American merchants to this country to show them the wealth and unbounded resources of the United States and then in the same breath adopt the most stringent measures to keep them from reaping the advantages of their observations? There is $600,000,000 worth of goods imported by the Central and South American States. Of this tremendous amount barely 10 per cent comes from the United States, when at least 50 per cent could easily be imported." True cause of this, he said, was, first, the tariff, and, second, the lack of transportation.

The Peruvian representative said that the only line of American ships which came anywhere near Lima was one from San Francisco. But the freight rates are more than double those they got from English vessels. There could be no extensive importations under those circumstances. It was possible for Peru to ship to this country $6,000,000 worth of sugar every year. Not one penny of that sum would ever go back to the shippers if trade relations were what they should be, for it would all be spent in purchasing American goods.

Through the entire delegation ran the same sentiment. "Open your ports," they said, "and let our goods come in. If we have steamships coming in here with our goods you will load them up with goods for us and we will gladly take them." These people are all anxious to do business with us, but the passage of the tariff act will make this impossible. The trade of South America is alone enough to make good times in a large part of this country if tariff restrictions were removed and adequate transportation was furnished and the system of credits placed upon a more liberal basis.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

It Will Certainly Be a Grand Success This Year.
The Stark county fair of 1897 promises to be of unusual interest. Arrangements have already been made for a number of special attractions and the premiums awarded for these features will all go to the patrons of the fair. No money will be expended for foreign attractions. The purpose of the management is to have something of interest on the track all day, forenoon and afternoon, for three days. There will be plenty of fun on Children's Day for the little folks and for big folks. There will be a fox chase for the boys. The plan is to release the fox in the enclosure about the track and let one boy from each school district join in the chase. Then there will be a running race for mules, and a trotting race for horses of the county that have never been tracked for race. The educational exhibit and program, we believe, will surpass all former efforts in this department. There will be the usual parade of horses and cattle entered for premiums, and races for the second day. On the third day, Thursday, the forenoon will be devoted to an exhibition of teams and single driving horses by townships and the three cities, Canton, Massillon and Alliance, each separate, and then a general round up for the best team and single driver selected from the winners of the township and city contests. The premiums for these various contests will be announced later. Exhibition drills of uniformed organizations, civic or military, are contemplated for the forenoon of Friday, the closing day of the fair. The Secretary solicits correspondence with all organizations and societies that desire to enter for such exhibition. No effort will be spared to make the fair a pronounced success in all its departments. Stark is one of the foremost agricultural counties in the United States, and with a full exhibit of its varied resources the fair of 1897 will be made so attractive and instructive that none can afford to stay away.

ADDRESSES TO QUEEN.

Members of Parliament Presented Them This Morning.

GARDEN PARTY THIS AFTERNOON.

Beacon Lights Flashed Around the World Last Night in Every British Province. Grand Illuminations—Whitlaw Reid Took Princess Victoria to Dinner.

LONDON, June 23.—The queen received addresses from the houses of parliament this morning. This afternoon the queen attended the garden party at Buckingham palace for which 6,000 invitations had been issued. This evening the queen will attend a royal banquet at the palace. Home and foreign royalties will attend Lady Salisbury's ball at the foreign office.

The illuminations of London and the British empire in honor of the queen occurred last night. The illuminations were achieved more artistically than the decorations by day. Last night those of the metropolis were like everything that had previously transpired of England, Wales and Scotland, and more resplendent than anything in her history. The symbols of royalty and affection, of imperial grandeur and the growth of empire that had met the eye in painted and gilded motes, devices of paper and bunting and spaniel cloth were now reflected for miles in lines of flaring gas, glowworm oil lamps, opal globes, paper lanterns and transparencies, incandescent lamps, electric flowers and hundreds of devices in thousands of colored crystals. Everything was brilliancy, sparkle, color.

With illuminations which were universal in every city, town and hamlet of England, Wales and Scotland, and in some parts of Ireland, with fireworks in countless places, with illuminations following the fall of night in every part of the empire where the queen has sway, there yet remained to be mentioned the final touch—the lighting of the empire's torch—the ancient form of giving warning or sending joy, the beacon fires. At 10 o'clock struck at the Greenwich observatory a tongue of flame shot upward from Great Malvern, "the backbone of the midlands." It was the jubilee beacon fire.

Hardly had the spectator time to look on it before another flashed the distance on the right, then again on the left, on the north, south, east and west. Peak answered to peak until from Berwick on Tweed to Rough Tor and Eryri in Wales, from Cornhill, from the cathedral towers of Litchfield, Worcester, Ripon, Lincoln and Durham, from Skiddaw to St. Heliers, from Haslemere to Cader Idris and across the water to Donegal and Dublin, 1,000 beacon fires blazed on their messages of loyalty to the sovereign.

Half an hour later the lowlands, the highlands, the wild hebrides even to Ultima Thule sent answering signals to the sky. And then slowly, as the light faded from day to evening around the world, the empire's torch was lit. From St. Heliers the signal leaped to Gibraltar, to Malta, to Cyprus, to Ceylon, to India where it blazed triumphantly on the Himalayas—to China, to Australia, to Canada, to the West Indies—the empire's torch shed its radiance over the universe.

At the special open-air services at St. Paul's cathedral Rear Admiral J. N. Miller, U. S. N., had a seat assigned next to Mrs. Reid, the wife of the United States special envoy and just opposite the spot where the queen stopped, but at the last moment Admiral Miller was prevented by the serious illness of his daughter from attending. Commander Emery of the United States frigate Brooklyn was present in full uniform, as were all the members of the special embassy except General Nelson A. Miles and his aide-de-camp, Captain Max P. Maus, who rode in the procession.

Whitlaw Reid, the United States special envoy, when questioned on the subject of the jubilee, said: "Etiquette forbids me from discussing the jubilee ceremonial, but you may say it was extraordinarily successful in every way."

At the lord chamberlain's office your representative was informed that on her return to Buckingham palace, after the procession, the queen and all the royal family expressed the greatest delight and satisfaction at the fact that everything had passed so successfully. There were many expressions of satisfaction at the carriage of the United States special envoy, Mr. Reid, had been so warmly received. It was considered largely due to President McKinley's cordial letter in congratulating her majesty upon the sixtieth anniversary of her accession to the throne. Every intention to honor the United States special ambassador has been displayed. For this reason Mr. Reid took the Princess Victoria of Wales in to dinner Monday evening, sitting at the table of and opposite the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

In addition, Queen Victoria received Mrs. Reid most cordially and, in the reception in the ballroom, she gave the wife of the United States special envoy her hand to kiss.
